While creating anything…clocking and patience then only consider it that u r doing it again…try try and try again get it at your perfection level …
Your computer can never be yours but somehow will help u create …
If somehow you will not get in touch with any of your device like computer…engine nucleus then sure they'll be there in touch with the one who actually is close to you …to get your real time and data updates…
Winding your body in such a way it feels like you are asking for flash…like (dialogue hello mister) both hand tight in each other like u giving yourself a hug…
